THE CHICAGO POST OFFICE DISCRIMINATION.

The following letters, though somewhat late, are published for the information of those interested. They show how strongly prejudiced some government officials are against the deaf.

A deaf man was appointed in the Philadelphia post office, and is making good. If a deaf man can make good in Philadelphia, why can he not in Chicago? The trouble is not with the deaf, but with the erroneous ideas about the deaf held by those in authority.

The situation shows the need of educating the public, and this should be done by the N. A. D. But to do effective work we need money. It is up to the deaf to say whether they want the N. A. D. to be a strong organization to fight their battles, or if they will allow apathy and internal quarrels to render the Association impotent as it has been for years past. The officers and committees are doing their best with the means at hand. Some progress is being made; but much more could be done if we had the funds. If you want the N. A. D. to be strong and efficient, join it or send donations to the treasurer, S. M. Freeman, Cave Springs, Ga.

UNITED STATES POST OFFICE.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, June 29, 1911.
MR. JOSEPH V. GRAFF,
309 Germania Fire Insurance Bldg.,
Peoria, Illinois.

MY DEAR SIR: I have your letter of the 27th instant, in behalf of Frederick Schoneman, of Manitou, Illinois, who was recently certified for appointment as substitute clerk at this office. You are advised that Mr. Schoneman was not accepted by the appointing board, on account of his physical disability. I regret the necessity of such action, but it is not believed that Mr. Schoneman could perform the duties of a clerkship under the circumstances, and service interests of course are paramount.

Yours very truly,
D. W. Campbell,
Postmaster.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT
(First Assistant Postmaster General)
WASHINGTON, D. C. July 21, 1911.

HON. HENRY T. RAINEY,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.

MY DEAR SIR: In reply to your letter of the 17th instant, which the postmaster general has referred to me, inclosing a communication from Fred W. Schoneman, Jr., relative to his failure to receive appointment as a clerk in the postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, owing to the fact that he is a deaf-mute, I beg leave to state that applicants for the postal service are required to be physically sound and in good health, and no person will be appointed who has defective hearing, sight or speech.

The Department deems it inadvisable to make exceptions to this rule, and, therefore, the requirement will not be waived in Mr. Schoneman's case.

Mr. Schoneman's letter is returned herewith.

Very truly yours,
C. P. GRANDFIELD,
First Asst. Postmaster General.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14, 1911.

HON. HENRY T. RAINEY,
House of Representatives.

MY DEAR SIR: With reference to your letter of the 7th instant, relative to the failure of Fred W. Schoneman, Jr., who is deaf-mute, to receive appointment in the postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, I beg leave to advise you that it is the invariable practice of the Department to take no action affecting the personnel of any postoffice without a recommendation from the postmaster. Your letter and the previous correspondence in regard to Mr. Schoneman has therefore been referred to the postmaster of Chicago for such recommendations as he may desire to submit. Upon receipt of his reply you will be advised promptly.

Very truly yours,
C. P. GRANDFIELD,
First Asst. Postmaster General

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 6, 1911.

HON. HENRY T. RAINEY,
House of Representatives.

MY DEAR SIR: With further reference to your letter of the 7th ultimo, relative to the failure of Fred W. Schoneman, Jr., who is a deaf-mute, to receive appointment in the postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, I beg leave to advise you that the postmaster states that Mr. Schoneman was certified for appointment three times, and the appointing board decided against his selection.

Very truly yours,
E. T. BUSHNELL,
Acting First Asst. Postmaster General.

U. S. CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION
WASHINGTON, D. C.,
Aug. 22, 1911.

HON. WILLIAM LORIMER,
United States Senate.

SIR: With further reference to your communication of July 31, and the Commission's reply of Aug. 3, 1911, the Commission has the honor to State that inquiry was made of the Commission's representative at Chicago, relative to the complaint of Frank A. Johnson that the names of two eligibles were dropped from the register for the Chicago post office, for the reason that they are deaf-mutes. The District Secretary advises that on June 19, 1911, Arthur A. Anderson, a deaf-mute, was certified to the postmaster and given three considerations, but was not selected for appointment, and that on July 19, 1911, Fred W. Schoneman was certified and likewise considered three times without selection. It is further stated that in no instance has a deaf-mute been refused examination at that office, and that the two cases and that of Frank West, who was considered three times without selection on January 29, 1910, are the only cases that have come to notice since the President's order regarding deaf-mutes went into operation. There are at present three deaf-mutes employed in the Chicago post office, who have been in the service for a number of years. The postmaster states that it would be practically impossible to appoint deaf-mutes in the Chicago post office at the mailing division where they are compelled to learn schemes of distribution, and not being able to talk, it would be a loss of time trying to instruct them and communicate with them on paper. The Commission's representative states that in the cases of Schoneman, he recalls distinctly the assistant postmaster consumed at least forty-five minutes trying to explain to him in detail why he could not be appointed.

Under the rules the postmaster is required to make selection for filling a vacancy from the highest of three names appearing upon the appropriate register, and it is within his discretion which of the three he shall select; and the Commission is without authority to question his right of choice, unless discrimination is shown on account of politics or religion. When a name has been among the highest three in connection with appointments to three separate vacancies, it need not be further considered. In view of the fact that the postmaster appears to have complied with the requirements of the rules in the case of Messrs. Anderson, Schoneman and West, it would appear that his action cannot now be questioned.

By direction of the Commission:
Very Respectfully,
(Signed) JOHN A. MCHENNY,
Acting President.

THE GALLAUDET MONUMENT AT HARTFORD.

At the last Convention of the National Association of the Deaf in Colorado Springs, a request was received from the New England Gallaudet Monument Association to assist in repairing the Gallaudet monument at Hartford. The matter was referred to the Executive Committee for action.

The monument was erected in 1854, with money contributed by the deaf. No hearing people were allowed to contribute. It is built of granite and marble. The marble is crumbling, due to climatic conditions. Unless substantially repaired soon, it will fall to ruin. Some temporary repairs have been made by the Hartford School but the Directors of the School, do not feel justified in going to the expense of restoring the monument so as to last permanently.

Shall this monument be allowed to fall to ruin?

As one of the most respected deaf in the country has said, it would be to the everlasting shame of the American deaf to allow it to go to ruin.

It is a monument not only to Gallaudet, but to the deaf of half a century ago who had the spirit to raise the money and build the monument. There never was and never will be another monument like it erected exclusively by the deaf.

Shall not the deaf of to-day prove themselves as worthy as those of fifty years ago?

Surely we should.

Here we have an opportunity to prove that we are worthy of the work of Gallaudet.

More that that we can demonstrate to the world that we are not paupers and beggars as many people think, but industrious and self-respecting citizens.

And it can be done with very little sacrifice if all the deaf will join in the work. There are at least 50,000 deaf who can contribute to this cause. If each will give a dime we shall have $5,000.00, or more than enough for the purpose. Of course not all will give, and some may give less, but many will doubtless give more, and all are requested to give as much as they can.

About $1500.00 is needed. Any money not needed for repairs will be placed in the Endowment Fund of the N. A. D.

The Executive Committee has decided on Gallaudet's birthday, December 10, 1912, as the day for raising the money. We want to raise it all in one day. All the deaf in the country are requested to arrange meetings on or about December 10th next, and contribute to the fund. We want all the deaf to join in this movement.

Dr. T. F. Fox, of New York, Dr. J. B. Hotchkiss and Mr. Harley D. Drake, of Gallaudet College, have been appointed a committee to have charge of raising the fund, and will arrange further details.

All school papers for the deaf are requested to copy this announcement and kept the subject before the deaf until next December.

The knocker, of which we deaf are blessed with more than our share, will doubtless say that the plan will not work. Nothing will work if the knocker has his way. But if the knocker will turn booster, it will work. So it is to be hoped that all will pull together for once.

The names of all contributors will be published, those in each state in the school paper of that state. It has been suggested that the names be placed in the monument, and this will probably be done.

OLOF HANSON,

SEATTLE, April 24, 1912.

LETTER TO GOVERNOR ALDRICH.

SEATTLE WASH., April 24, 1912.

GOV. H. C. ALDRICH,
Lincoln, Neb.

DEAR SIR:—I have just read in the New York JOURNAL of April 18th, the Open Letter addressed to you by Mr. Edward Perkins Clarke, and the reply there to by your Secretary, Mr. Fuller.

Mr. Clarke was more fortunate than I in securing a reply to his letter addressed to you by Mr. Fuller. Mr. Clarke was more fortunate than I in securing a reply to his letter.

ter. He also acknowledges that my letter to you was received, which I am glad to know, though this is the first intimation I have had of this fact.

In his reply to Mr. Clarke, Mr. Fuller says: "Mr. Hanson is evidently laboring under the impression that the Nebraska law provides for the oral method to the exclusion of any and all other methods * * *. This impression is entirely wrong, and not in accordance with the law."

I am glad to see this interpretation of the law from such a source, and presume it reflects your views.

But it does not represent Mr. Booth's views. Before writing to you, I took pains to write to Mr. Booth to ascertain his understanding of the law. According to his reply, he understands that the law calls for the exclusive use of the Oral Method, and he proposes to use it exclusively. I asked permission from Mr. Booth to publish his letter, but this permission he refused.

In an address at Omaha, Mr. G. Pearce, Pres. of the Nat. Educational Association, stress was again laid on the exclusive use of the Oral Method. This address was published in the JOURNAL the paper published at the Omaha School. I wrote a reply and asked that it be published in the JOURNAL. This request was denied. I have had the reply printed, and herewith send you a copy.

Supt. Booth's attitude on this subject is well known, and there can be no doubt that his purpose is to use the Oral Method exclusively.

It is this exclusive use of the oral method to which we deaf object, and that was why I wrote you and asked that you use your influence with Mr. Booth to prevent his adopting that course.

I also join with Mr. Clarke in again expressing the hope that the sign language will be used in chapel exercises, public addresses, lectures, and religious services.

Yours respectfully,
OLOF HANSON.

Bold Faker Is Sent to "Pen"

The arrest of the most bold faker that has been brought to the attention of the police in many months occurred Saturday afternoon, when Detective Gradwell placed Lewis Arnold, of Knoxville, Pa., under arrest.

Arnold is a big, healthy appearing fellow. This time he was working the deaf-mute game. He couldn't hear or talk.

He stood all day on Westwater Street, west of Main, with a bundle of shoe laces thrown over his left arm, which he represented to be broken. He still maintains that the arm is lame.

"Um-m m" was all he could say. Detective Gradwell took a position in Nels's grocery and watched him for a few minutes. He would attract the attention of passers-by with his "um-m-m" and indicate that he wanted them to buy laces from a poor mute. He collected alms that way. Finally the detective stepped out and caught him by the shoulder and jostled him around, saying: "Come, Arnold, I want you."

"Um-m m," was the response. "Come on, you're faking. I know you. I arrested you here two years ago for the same game," declared the detective.

Then Arnold quit. "Don't arrest me this time, Mr. Officer," the "poor mute" said. "I simply want to raise enough money to get to Knoxville. My wife is at Montour Falls. Ouch! Don't touch that arm, I broke it in four places a year ago and cannot use it or move it from that position," protested the admitted faker.

So Detective Gradwell arrested him and charged him vagrancy.

In police court this morning Arnold confessed that he had been faking the people but insisted that his arm was in bad condition. Recorder Gill reminded him of the time when he gave Arnold 20 days for a similar offense. Arnold remembered it. This time the Recorder said: "Six months in the Monroe County penitentiary. I'll cut it in half if you'll admit that you are faking about that broken arm."

But Arnold wouldn't do that then. He is going to consider it.—Elmira Star-Gazette, April 29.

WHAT TO TEACH

By Albert C. Hill, Inspector of N. Y. State Board of Education.

What to teach is a very important question in schools for hearing children; it is even more important in schools for the deaf. The curriculum of public schools is being studied with a view to eliminating what is relatively unimportant and adding that which is of greater value. The conventional mental food for the young is no longer held to be sacred, and everything that does not seem to have definite value is being swept aside.

Without yielding full assent to this iconoclastic tendency, it may be said that a reinvestigation of the claims of various subjects to places in school courses is timely and desirable, and is likely to result in lasting good to the cause of education. Herbert Spencer's query—What knowledge is worth most?—is specially pertinent in schools for the deaf; for if there is some doubt of the value of certain subjects in the traditional courses for hearing children, there is still greater reason for questioning the fitness of subjects for those deprived of hearing. The keenest searchlight of criticism should be turned on everything taught the deaf, and only those studies that can stand the test should be retained.

The question of subject matter for the deaf does not seem to have received the attention it deserves. Indeed, it is doubtful whether it has been seriously considered at all. It is probable that the curriculum of hearing schools was adopted by the first schools without much thought, and has been modified to meet the necessities of lack of capacity in the pupils and lack of skill in the teaching. At present some good authorities maintain that the deaf should be given the same subjects, the same text-books, and the same tests as hearing children. Others, equally experienced, would greatly restrict the scope of the work simply what is taught, and not be very exacting in results. There seem to be extremes in theory, practice, and results, and somewhere between them may possibly lie the mean. The aim should be to find out just what knowledge will best fit deaf children for life in its truest meaning, and then turn all the appliances of the school and all the energy and skill of the teachers to obtaining it.

ELIMINATION

In view of the serious handicap under which the deaf child labors in acquiring knowledge, the limited time available for his education, and the necessity in many cases of his becoming self-supporting as soon as possible, it seems evident that many subjects of the ordinary school curriculum should either be greatly abridged or wholly omitted. Probably there will be general agreement with this statement in the abstract. Differences of opinion will arise, however, as soon as a particular subject is mentioned. Something at least is gained by securing a consensus that the process of elimination, intelligently followed, would improve the course of study for the deaf. It may be well for the readers of this article mentally to accept or reject the views expressed thus far before proceeding, as they are quite likely to disagree with some things that follow. The writer will be entirely satisfied with an acceptance of the fundamental idea that the material of education for the deaf may be improved by judicious elimination and condensation, leaving the problem of what shall be stricken out and added to experts in teaching the deaf.

SUBSTITUTION

Substitution will naturally follow the process of elimination. There are, doubtless, some things not now found in the schools that might be introduced with profit. Every teacher no doubt has something in mind that he thinks should be added to enrich the instruction of the deaf. Choice of new material should not be hastily made, but should be the result of study, experience, and wide discussion. Practical needs should be considered, but the term "practical" should be taken in a broad sense. Life is more than meat and the body than raiment to the deaf as well as to the hearing.

EMPHASIS

All subject-matter properly in the schools is not equally important. Some things are vastly more essential than others. The emphasis should be put in the right places. The easiest subject to teach, the one that is the most spectacular, the one the child naturally likes the best, is not necessarily the one to be given the most attention. The line of least resistance, either for the teacher or the pupil, is not always the one to follow to secure the best permanent results. Is it not true that the work in schools for the deaf might be greatly improved by a change of emphasis?

CONCENTRATION

Concentration of effort on fewer subjects would naturally follow the adoption of the suggestions that have been made. It evidently requires much drill to make the proper impression on the mind of a deaf child. Flitting too hastily from one thing to another is the bane of American education in schools for the hearing. The same mistake ought not to be made with deaf children. Something well mastered is essential to a sound and valuable education. Clear ideas, exact expression, logical thought, are worth something; hazy impressions, loose expression, slipshod reasoning have little value and are an element of grave danger.

Elimination, substitution, change of emphasis, concentration of effort seem to offer most cheering prospects for the improvement of subject-matter in schools for the deaf. These processes are changing schools for the hearing with remarkable rapidity. Some schools for the deaf have caught the spirit of the times and are forging ahead; others have been dormant for a long time.

The educational side of work for the deaf was at first, and in many cases has continued to be, secondary to custodial care. Only in rare instances has the stir of modern progress in educational thought and practice penetrated the teaching and organization of the schools. The reactionaries, who cling too tenaciously to the past and refuse to listen to the voice of the progressives, will some day find themselves in a hopeless minority and far in the rear. The schools that are open to new ideas, that prove all things and hold fast to that which is good, are setting the pace and will be the winners of the future. Marking time is not enough in this age.

It might be well to stop at this point and not risk the danger of going into details, especially in view of the fact that the writer has not spent his life in teaching the deaf. There are others who are undoubtedly better qualified to make specific applications of the suggestions that have been offered. However, principles and theories must be applied to be worth much, and a few concrete examples may do no harm, even though they may not meet with general approval. From conflicting views the truth may emerge.

STUDY CONCRETE THINGS

Would it not be well to eliminate all of algebra and most of the abstract work in arithmetic from the studies of the deaf? The ordinary measures of daily use and the computations and simple problems needed in business are essential, but the rest is of questionable value to the deaf. Is it wise to use limited time in teaching a deaf child the abstractions of algebra when there is so much he needs to know that appeals to his active senses? With one important sense gone, a child should have the others cultivated to the highest possible degree to make up for the loss. It seems, therefore, that the study of natural and artificial objects that appeal to sight, touch and smell, is more than names to the deaf child. The study of concrete things, so well begun in the lower grades of most schools for the deaf, ought to be continued and much more fully developed in all of the upper classes.

ENGLISH ALONE

It may well be questioned whether the study of Latin, Greek, or any modern language but English is profitable for the deaf of the United States. Getting a fair mastery of a language is a task of discouraging magnitude for the deaf child, and the teacher is often in despair in her efforts to teach it. Mastery of a thought is hard enough for a deaf child without the added burden of having to express it in several languages. It he can tell it is thought in one way, the teacher should be satisfied and the child and his friends delighted. Mastery of a language is gained only by much use of it, and the deaf never get enough drill in the use of a single language while in school.

SPEECH OF SUPREME VALUE

It is quite generally conceded that speech and speech-reading are a branch of subject-matter that cannot well be wholly neglected. In view of their intimate relation to social life, it may not be too much to say that they are the most important study for the deaf. They hold the place of mother tongue. All other forms of expression may be valuable, but speech is of supreme value, because it is the link that connects the deaf child with society, the bond that holds him closest to kin and friends. Speech and speech-reading seem to be the central feature in the education of the deaf that must be mastered, even at the cost of omitting something else. The deaf may at last come into the same heritage of learning as the hearing, but it must be by first overcoming, as far as possible, the chief barrier between them. It seems, therefore, that better provision for mastering this branch of study should be made. There should be more expert teaching of it, much more drill in it. This is perhaps the strongest reason for lessening the time and energy used on other subjects.

Deaf-Mutes' Journal

NEW YORK MAY 9, 1912.

EDWIN A. HODGSON, Editor.

THE DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL (published by the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, at 168d Street and Ft. Washington Ave.) is issued every Thursday; is the best paper for deaf-mutes published; it contains the latest news and correspondence; the best writers contribute to it.

And not for all the race."

In a trifle over two months from this date, representative deaf-mutes from every civilized country in the world will assemble in Paris to celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Abbe de l'Epée, the originator of the sign language in the education of the deaf, and a benefactor that the deaf of all nations and all creeds should delight to honor.

The program of this great occasion has already been printed in the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL. So it is not necessary to go into detail, except to remind all who contemplate being present, that questions of great import to the deaf will be discussed, and considerable data relating to their education and generation status in the communities of various countries will be presented.

When the congress convenes on July 28th, at the Sorbonne, in Paris, it is safe to say that there will be present between twenty and twenty-five representatives of the United States.

Unlike conditions that preceded the Congress in Paris in 1889, the delegates and visitors will not be brought together as at Washington at the dedication of the Gallaudet Statue; therefore, they will not cross the ocean together, as on the memorable occasion twenty-three years ago. Most of the American deaf will go by the North German Line, and will not visit England.

This is to be regretted, as the British are contemplating a fine program for the entertainment of the delegates.

Rev. Francis Maginn (who was educated at Gallaudet College) has mapped out an itinerary for Ireland and Scotland that will in itself be an education, aside from the pleasure it will give.

Through Rev. F. A. Elliot a cordial invitation is extended to attend the annual reunion of the deaf, at St. Mary's Shandon Church and School House, Cork.

Mr. William Agnew will welcome the deaf in regular Scotch style in Glasgow.

And in London, Rev. Mr. Gilby who has charge of the beautiful St. Saviour's Church for the Deaf on Oxford Street, is organizing a welcome committee for the American deaf and will give an elaborate banquet in their honor.

The Editor of the JOURNAL would be pleased to have all those who have decided to attend the Congress send in their names, giving the date and route of ocean travel. It will be to their advantage, as it may enable him to give useful information in regard to the people at places where they may wish to stop.

The deaf of France have contributed a big sum of money for the entertainment of their foreign brethren, and have compiled a program that will call forth deepest feeling of the reverent of heart, the finest thought from the brilliant in mind, and the greatest enjoyment for the bon vivant of spirit, by its variety and breadth.

In Memoriam.

At a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes, held April 29th, the following minute was adopted:—

By the death of Edward Beverley Nelson, the deaf have lost a sympathetic friend, and all who endeavor to promote the welfare of the deaf, have been deprived of an earnest associate and co-worker.

For thirty-two years, beginning soon after his graduation from Harvard University, Mr. Nelson was engaged in the instruction of deaf children, and during twenty-nine of those years was at the head of the Central New York School for the Deaf, at Rome, N. Y. Very many who were his pupils, will ever remember with gratitude his kind and wise instruction and admonition, whereby they were fitted to meet bravely, successfully and honorably the duties and responsibilities of mature life, and enabled to appreciate and enjoy its highest privileges. Nor will they forget that his interest in their welfare did not cease when they passed from under his hand, but followed their later career, and his aid, counsel and encouragement, within the bounds of his ability, were always readily enlisted on their behalf when occasion arose. But his human sympathy reached beyond those who came under his instruction. Many of the deaf who were never his pupils and very many who were not deaf, but who had the good fortune to come frequently into contact with him, will miss with sincere regret his genial presence, his inspiring companionship and his warm-hearted friendship.

Mr. Nelson was for twenty-five years a member of the Board of Trustees of the Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes, and we, who were so long associated with him in that capacity, in high appreciation of his many virtues, put upon record this tribute to his memory, and beg to extend to his bereaved family assurance of our deep sympathy with them in their sorrow.

In Memoriam

At a special meeting of the Principal and teachers of the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, held on Monday, April 29th, 1912, the Principal announced the death of Mr. William Wade, and appointed a committee to give, in behalf of the Institution family, an expression of the affection in which Mr. Wade was held by all:—

MINUTE OF RESPECT.

It is with a sense of personal loss that the Principal, teachers and pupils of the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb have learned of the death of Mr. William Wade, who was long and affectionately known to most of us.

Mr. Wade was a faithful friend and a generous benefactor of the deaf; especially of those who were doubly handicapped—the deaf-blind.

He was a true, sympathetic friend in every sense of the word, and seemed to consider that his special mission in life was to aid those upon whom misfortune had laid a heavy hand.

He gave much of himself with his benefactions, emphasizing this characteristic by the personal interest he manifested in those he made his friends. Untiring in unselfish devotion, with a naive originality and an unaffected manner, he endeared himself to all with whom he came into contact. The law of kindness seemed to fill his heart, and left no place for anything that was mean or sordid.

His loving acts of kindness, his helpful words of encouragement and cheer, his numerous thoughtful deeds threw sunshine in the paths of many whose lives had not been blessed with worldly comforts; and they knew, and appreciated Mr. Wade's greatness of heart and soul.

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Wade the deaf have lost a friend and benefactor, whose generous acts and encouraging counsel lightened the hearts of those whom he honored with his friendship.

Resolved, That to his family we extend our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

Resolved, That a copy of this Minute be transmitted to the family our late friend, and that a copy be offered for publication to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE.

Wednesday evening, May 4th, the members of the Senior, Junior and Normal classes held gay revel in the East Wing library, when an informal jollification for the above mentioned classes was pulled off. During the earlier part of the evening, the merry-makers grouped themselves about the library in ornate fashion and discussed the day's doings. Later on, however, it was voted that the Juniors entertain the cap and gown Seniors with charades, which was done, much to the enjoyment and edification of the crowd. Altogether, what with the dancing indulged in and the games played, a most enjoyable evening was had.

Last Wednesday, after the Presentation Exercises, President and Mrs. Percival Hall, assisted by Mrs. Dr. Fay, and Mrs. Dr. Ely, received the members of the graduating class, their friends, and the members of the reception committee, until six o'clock.

Thursday, May 2d, was Class Day. Moreover, it was a most enjoyable day. The Seniors got busy in the morning, and erected a rostrum for the speakers, who were to hold forth in the afternoon. They then enlisted the aid of landscape gardener Mangum, and with the addition of college pennants and bunting, turned their carpenterial (?) achievement into a veritable paradise of flowery vista and gay color.

At two-thirty P. M. the Seniors assembled on the campus and stood respectfully bare-headed at attention, while "Old Glory" which had flown from the tower flag-pole since early Wednesday morning, was lowered and a huge purple and white banner was run up. This latter idea marks the establishment of what is hoped will be an annual custom at Gallaudet—the custom of flying the Senior Class colors from the tower on Class day. It is a pretty custom that has long been in vogue at Amherst.

Promptly at three o'clock, the guests having arrived, and the band having already played the Star Spangled Banner while the gathering stood bare-headed, President Gardner of the Senior Class delivered an address of welcome, after which President Hall of the college was introduced to his old friends. President Hall spoke feelingly of the occasion and delivered much sage advice to the Senior Class, advice that drove home to all, whether Senior or not.

Class Historian Tom L. Anderson related bits of the class history from the time of its entrance as a "Duck" class until the present. He spoke in his usual happy vein, his remarks being interpreted for the benefit of the hearing guests, by Miss Petra Fandrem, '12.

The Class Poem was next recited by Miss Mamie B. Sharp, whose signs were read by Mr. Anderson. The poem was written by Miss Anna Vaughan Johnson and was much admired by everyone.

The Class Poem was followed by the Prophecy, written by the Prophet, Mr. Vernon Sterling Birk, who took his audience on a journey into a future, twenty-five years hence, when his own cotton-top had become black with age. After mixing up his helpless classmates' destinies in hopeless fashion, the prophet came to the conclusion that "was only too true that 'A prophet hath no honor in his own country,' and quit.

The prophecy was succeeded by the Class Will and Last Testament, read by eminent legal shark, Mr. Shelby Wynne Harris. In order to assure hearing guests a square deal, Mr. Anderson tooted his horn orally as an accompaniment to the legal light's remarks.

Notable bequests made were: the historic ribbon-bedecked spade, bearing additional streamers of purple and white of "Naughty Twelve," to the President of the Junior Class, Mr. Grover C. Farquhar, together with all the prerogatives and honors of a Senior class, the latter bequest to be effective only after June 19th. The members of the Freshman Class, having expressed a fervent love for odorous cheese, were bequeathed a chunk of limburger, which resulted in the banishment of the President of the class when he attempted to open it publicly. Miss Keeley, P. C., received a ball and bat in order that the G. C. A. A. might rest in peace from her endeavors to become a diamond star. Ted Hughes kicked like a horse and threatened suit to break the class will, because he was left only one ticket to the Dixie theatre; he wanted two.

President Gardner closed the exercises by speaking of the class tree, a maple, and by inviting the assembly to sojourn to the elipse between Faculty Row and College Hall, where refreshments of cake, cream and punch, were served to the crowd, which proceeded to amuse itself in various ways.

The day's program came to a close at six o'clock, and according to reports that reached correspondent's ears, this year's Class Day beat all its predecessors by a long shot.

Thursday evening, the Seniors held an informal party in the East

Wing, where games were played, dancing indulged in, and refreshments of cake, cream and punch enjoyed.

The Class of 1912 appreciated the efforts of Bandmaster Fancher and his band to help make the Class Day program a success by giving a concert in conjunction therewith.

HOP TO CLASS 1912.

There have been hops at Gallaudet, and hops, but there can be only one hop to Class 1912 and there can be only one like it. The old timers, who have attended hops ever since they were instituted at Gallaudet College, united to pronounce the 1912 affair the best that has ever been given by the undergraduates.

The decorations were superb, beginning with the beautiful electric "1912" in purple and white, and ending with the big class flag that had flown from the tower all of Thursday afternoon. The gym hall was a veritable paradise of potted plants, flowers, pennants, streamers of Southern smilax, set off with a judicious use of bunting. As a rule too much is attempted in the decoration scheme at the hops, but this year the splendid arrangement of flags, plants and bunting, gave abundant evidence of the artistic talent that was expended in its achievement.

The floor was in fine condition, and the management thereof could not have been improved. On entering the hall at eight o'clock the guests were given beautiful souvenir programs in purple and white, the front cover of which bore an artistic purple pennant with the graduating class numerals on it.

The first page bore the title in purple ink; page two the class motto, "Speciemur agendo"; page three the Senior class roster; page four, and five the program of twenty-four dances; six, spaces for six extras; page seven, the names of the patronesses, Mesdames, Charles R. Ely, Herbert E. Day, and Harley D. Drake; page eight was occupied by a list of the Committee, Messrs. F. H. Hughes, Chairman; H. L. Battiste, C. O. H. Linde, class of 1913; W. G. Durian, W. O. Hunter, A. W. Patterson, Class of 1914; W. D. Edington, E. S. Foltz, and W. F. Miller, Class of 1915.

During the program a buffet service of lemon punch was maintained for the thirsty dancers, and during the intermission refreshments of cake and cream were had in Chapel Hall.

Altogether, the Hop to the Class of 1912 was the best even given on Kendall Green. What with the pleasure the dance itself gave, the evidence of good-will shown the graduating class in the amount of labor expended, and the beauty of the scene on the night of May third, nineteen hundred and twelve, it is assured that the memory of the Hop to "Naughty twelve" will linger long with the members of the honored Class.

Among the guests at Kendall Green during Presentation Week were Rev. C. O. Dantzer, of Philadelphia, who preached a splendid sermon to the students Sunday afternoon, the fifth; Rev. Mr. Moylan, of Baltimore; and Rev. Mr. Oliver Wildin, of Baltimore.

Mrs. Jay Cooke Howard, nee Draper, daughter of Dr. Amos G. Draper, Secretary of the College, has been a delightful visitor at the home of her father during Presentation week. It has been a source of much pleasure to her old friends to meet Mrs. Howard again, while to those who met her for the first time, during the past week, the honor has been well appreciated.

BASE-BALL.

Saturday, May 4th, Gallaudet put the rollers under her ancient rivals, Baltimore City College to the tune of 6 to 0, scoring the first shut-out of the season. "Chief" Battiste served 'em up in grand style, and supported in errorless fashion, had no trouble in beating the visitors. Line-up:—Rockwell, s.s.; Blanchard, l.f.; Jacobsen 2b.; Rassmussen, 3b.; Roller, r.f.; Arras, c.f.; Rendall, c.; Miller 1b.; Battiste, p.

News items for this column should be sent to James S. Reider, 1538 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The following is clipped from the North American, May 6th, 1912:

"A meeting to formulate plans for raising funds to build the Archbishop Ryan Memorial for Deaf-Mutes was held in the Cathedral chapel yesterday afternoon. Those present were representatives of the Holy Name Union.

Following a suggestion advanced by James J. Ryan, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Memorial Association, it was resolved to create a per capita tax of $1 to be continued for three years.

It is the intention of the association to expend $250,000. A number of sites have been submitted for approval, but no definite action has been taken.

Other Catholic organizations will adopt measures to assist the fund."

At the meeting of the Clero Literary Association on Thursday evening, May 2d, Mrs. Victoria Simone gave quite an interesting description of Italy (her native country), and its people. She was followed by Mr. J. S. Reider, who described China and its people. Mr. Alexander McGhee, Treasurer, presided in the absence of the other officers. The attendance was fairly good.

Thirty-two children were present last Sunday at the second session of the Sunday School for the Jewish deaf children. Miss Rosenbach and Miss Abby Tobiasson of the Hebrew Sunday School Society, were present. Rev. Leon H. Elmaleh spoke to the children, who listened attentively to what he had to say.

The children are able to read lips and to speak. It was particularly impressive to hear them recite the Twenty-third Psalm in concert.

Mrs. J. Bunford Samuel has evidenced her interest in the school by a gift of $10.—From the Jewish Exponent, April 26th, 1912.

As an appreciation for the benefits extended to them in the past by the officers and congregation of the Beth Israel Temple, the members of the Beth Israel Association for the Deaf recently raised the sum of $100.00 and contributed it towards the purchase of a handsome piano and stool for the congregation. Rabbi Marvin Nathan, Mr. Julius Blankenslee and a number of others of the Temple, have taken a personal interest in promoting the welfare of the Jewish deaf here, so that the appreciation was not only a graceful act, but a well deserved one. We must heartily commend our Jewish friends for their thoughtful act in expressing their gratitude to the people who are befriending them. Even though the gift may be a small one in comparison to the benefits received, it is very good that the deaf did as much as they could and their desire to do something for the congregation is sure to be appreciated by it.

Leonard R. Wilson, second son of Mrs. Helen Wilson, will be confirmed at Rodef Shalom Synagogue, S. E. corner of Broad and Mt. Vernon Sts., on May 22d, at 10 o'clock. Those deaf who desire to attend this service can do so. Mrs. Wilson's older son, Valentine, who graduated from the Central Manual Training School, is now employed as a salesman for a talking machine company.

Rev. C. O. Dantzer has been absent from the city for almost a week, visiting in Baltimore and Washington. His services at these places will probably be reported by others.

In reporting the officers of the Ladies' Pastoral Aid Society last week, we inadvertently omitted the Vice-President, so here is the full list again: President, Mrs. C. O. Dantzer; Vice-President, Mrs. J. S. Rodgers; Secretary, Miss Mae E. Stemple; Treasurer, Miss Gertrude Parker.

All Souls' annual Strawberry Festival will be held at All Souls' Hall, on Saturday evening, June First. This festival is usually held on the first Saturday in June.

Rabbi Max Klein is expected to address the Beth Israel Association for the Deaf, on next Sunday afternoon, May 12th. This Association will give an Ice Cream Social on Saturday evening, June 1st, not a dancing party as first proposed. Admission will be ten cents.

Mrs. James B. George and children left Philadelphia to-day (Monday, 6th), for Portland, Oregon, to join the husband and father who had preceded them several weeks ago.

Mrs. Sadie Pollock has returned home after a five months' visit to her sister, Mrs. Sigel, at New Rochelle, New York.

Isaac Allen, of Hartsville, Bucks County, Pa., writes us that he recently visited Philadelphia, stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Buch, for a few days. Thence he went to York, Pa., to visit his friend Paul Fauth, and after that he visited Reading. He enjoyed the visits very much.

We were shown some exquisitely embroidered centre pieces made by Mrs. Rebecca Kintzel, mother of our Miss Dora Kintzel. Although Mrs. Kintzel is 72 years of age, she is able to do wonderfully fine embroidery work, crocheting and knitting.

William H. Lipsett rendered "The Conspirator of Cordova" before the Berks County Local Branch, at Reading, last Saturday, 4th of May. His wife accompanied him on the trip, both returning on Sunday. On this Saturday, May 11th, Mr. Lipsett will give the same reading before the Philadelphia Local Branch at All Souls' Hall. Admission will be twenty (20) cents which includes a treat to ice cream.

Jas. S. Reider will lecture before the Lancaster Local Branch at Lancaster, Pa., on Saturday evening, May 11th. His subject will be "China, and its People." The lecture will be given in St. James Hall.

Miss Pearl Herdman, of St. Louis, is expected to be in Philadelphia in a week or two.

Two Deaf Mutes

Two young ladies entered a railway car, and the only seat vacant was one turned to face another in which sat two young men. No sooner had the girls seated themselves than the young men began to work their fingers in the sign language of deaf-mutes. They were well dressed, gentlemanlike fellows, and it was evident from the rapidity with which they talked with their hands that they could neither hear nor speak.

"Isn't it a pity, Grace?" said one of the girls to the other, "that these young men are deaf-mutes?" "And so handsome, too?"

The words were spoken in too low a tone for their vis-a-vis to hear, even if they had been endowed with hearing, for the girls could not quite feel sure of their condition. As the train got under way, making more and more of a rattle, the girls gained confidence and raised their voices. Since no heed was paid to them by the young men, no matter what they said, they finally became used to speaking in their natural voices.

"Isn't it funny, Belle," said Grace, "to be talking about people before their faces and they not being able to hear a word."

"There's a fascination about it," replied the other. "Do you know, I am possessed with a desire to say something I wouldn't have them hear for the universe."

FRANK W. BIGELOW,
President N. E. G. A.

"Take life too seriously, and what is it worth? If the morning wake us to no new joys, if the evening bring us not the hope of new pleasures, is it worth while to dress and undress? Does the sun shine on me to-day that I may reflect on yesterday? That I may endeavor to foresee and to control what can neither be foreseen nor controlled—the destiny of to-morrow?—Goethe.

Wanted.

A young woman to do general housework. Address: Mrs. A. Oberbeck, 50 South Holland Ave., Rockaway Beach, N. Y.

"I'm not afraid. Young gentlemen, we are very much pleased with your appearance. We live at 84 Adams Street. We would be very glad to have you call upon us this evening."

She said all this looking straight at her friend. The young men's fingers were going like lightning. They seemed to have found a new subject of mutual interest.

"What would be the use of their coming to see us?" said Belle. "They couldn't talk to us nor we to them. Perhaps they carry slates to write messages on."

When the train stopped at the station where all were to alight, one of the young men said to the other in a sonorous bass voice:

"Goodby, Redmond. I'll meet you at 8 at your room."

The girls went home in a carriage, using smelling salts by the way.

The time came when the young men made the girls' acquaintance, and the call as well, but it was all done without reference to their first meeting.—Frankford News Gleaner, April 27.

NEW YORK.

News items for this column, should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.

A few words of information in a letter or on a postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

The following is from one of the New York daily newspapers:

Two deaf mutes secured a marriage license to-day. They were Robert B. Westlake, 27 years old, of 436 Wythe Avenue, and Miss Jessie Franklin, 21 years old, of 272½ Franklin Avenue. She is the daughter of Deputy City Paymaster Charles Franklin. Her mother, Eleanor Franklin, came with the couple to "interpret."

The marriage will take place in June. The officiating clergyman will be the Rev. Dr. Boll, of Manhattan.

Dressed in the costume affected by the disciples of Æsculapius two hundred years ago, complete from battered top-hat to neckerchief and smalls, Rev. John H. Keiser gave a reading of Charles Dickens' "Doctor Marigold" in the Assembly Room of the Intercession Society, 558 West 158th Street, Saturday evening, May 4th. There were about fifty persons present, among whom were twelve Cadet Officers from the Fanwood School, who from the vantage of the front row enjoyed an interesting intellectual treat. One of the chief factors in the story is a little deaf and dumb girl, so the account had an added enchantment for those who were fortunate to have been at the reading.

Another deaf-mute from Greater New York has decided to attend the International Congress to be held in Paris, France. He is Sylvester J. Fogarty. He may be accompanied by M. R. McCarthy, S. J., provided every thing turns out as anticipated.

Miss Charlotte M. Croft, after a stay of several months in this city, has removed to Northampton, Mass. Miss Croft has travelled around the world, is a very vivacious and intelligent lady, and will be much missed by her New York friends.

The Hebrew congregation of Brooklyn with hold a regular meeting on Saturday evening, May 11th, at eight o'clock, at the Temple on Putnam Avenue, between Reid and Stuyvesant Avenues, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Meyer Reich, of Haverhill, Mass., was in the city last week, as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Schoenfeld, and visited the rooms of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League.

The next meeting of the League of Elect Surds will be held this coming Saturday evening, at their old rooms, Picken Building, 125th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue.

Mr. Alex. L. Pach was at the last regular meeting of the Brooklyn Division, N. F. S. D., elected a delegate to the convention to be held in Columbus, July 1st to 6th, 1912.

During May Father McCarthy, S. J., will make a Western trip, and hold Mission to deaf-mutes. He will be absent from New York for over two weeks.

George H. Witschief has rented his house in Arlington, N. J., and henceforth will live with his married daughter in upper Manhattan.

Deaf Employee to Whom He was Kind Leaves Joseph R. Cheesman $5,000.

Fifteen years or so ago, Joseph R. Cheesman owned and operated a small factory in Burlington, N. J. Among his employees was a man named Harry Green.

The employee was a stranger in Burlington, and he was deaf. His affliction made his life even more lonely than it would have been otherwise. It was hard to talk with him, and naturally of a diffident, retiring disposition, he made no friends.

Cheesman noticed the lonely existence the man led and went out of his way on many occasions to talk with him, using a pad and pencil to do so. Once in a while he would invite his employee to go out to lunch, and on one or two occasions had him go home to dinner with him.

Green was grateful. A year or so later he went to his employer and resigned. He said that an opportunity had been offered him to go to another city, and he thought it would be to his benefit to go.

As he was leaving he told Mr. Cheesman how much the little kindness the latter had done meant to him, and he said he would never forget it. Neither did he.

A short time ago a man named Harry Green died in Philadelphia. Although deaf, he was known to business associates as having been very successful. In his will there was found a bequest of $5,000 for Joseph R. Cheesman.

And with the bequest was this little explanation:

OHIO.

[News items for this column may be sent to our Ohio News Bureau, care of Mr. A. B. Greener, 993 Franklin Ave., Columbus, O.]

May 4, '12—The Gymnasium course for this school year closed with the first of May, and as a fitting final, the two instructors gave an exhibition of the work last evening in the gymnasium before the officers, teachers, and some invited guests, among the latter being Hon. Allen W. Thurman, President of the Board of Administration and member Shoeffler. The exercises were pleasing and much enjoyed, the only drawback to several of the girls' exercises being their monotony owing to their length, which in a measure was responsible for the cutting the last two exercises on the list. After the awarding of the merits, Miss Rickey was honored by the members of her classes with a box of choice flowers and several gifts.

The following girls received the honor badge, which was pinned on them by Miss Zell: Hannah Engstrom, Grace Evans, Rachel Gleason, Hilda Bamberg, Estella Huffman, Maria Ketcham, Anna Koffer, Vida Morrison, Veda Myers, Agnes McBaine, Elsie Shakerford, Ruby Weid, Elizabeth Swisher and Hazel Fischer.

The following received honorable mention: Eva Bamberg, Irene Cave, Pearl Churchill, Lucile Edwards, Corrine Glaser, Fannie Jeemen, Anna King, Thelma Maurer, Alice Nesbitt, Lizzie Proffitt, Myrtle Quayle, Lena Sattler, Frances Utes and Beulah Whitacre.

Mr. A. H. Schory entertained the members of Clonian Society Saturday evening, with practical talk on bee-keeping. He had a hive, minus the bees, on the stage and showed how it is used. He also explained the advantages of the new aparian methods over the old style. He was given a raising vote of thanks at the conclusion of his talk.

Martin Lindcome, of Zanesville, and Miss Mary Sines were married in that city, on the 28th ult.

Mr. J. A. Horn, of Zanesville, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt, of Springfield, several days last week. One evening he was taken to a moving picture show, and had the pleasure of seeing the Fanwood cadets drill. He thinks their drill is marvelous, and up to the West Pointers. He was in Columbus several hours, but rain kept him from coming to visit the school. He visited Mr. Connelly in the Kassman dyehouse.

With the pupils' letters, May 1st, went along circulars to parents on the closing of the school, June 11th, with requests to forward money by the first of June, for their children's transportation. The purchasing of tickets and reading the pupils, will be done by the teachers the same as for the Christmas vacation.

John Burnham, of Jackson, Mich., was a visitor here for several days. He quit school in 1895. He is employed as a shipping clerk in the Hayes Auto Wheel Co., and is taking a four weeks' vacation. He left for New York City, Wednesday for a few days' visit.

Harry Dix is anxious to have former pupils play a game of baseball with the Independents, on May 18th, and if Messrs. John Wagner and Arthur Wenner, of Cincinnati, Oren Riddle and Charles Robinson, of Piqua, Henry Vollmer and W. Hemileuski, of Dayton, and B. Tusling, of Canal Winchester, will consent to come here, he will arrange for the game. Except Mr. Wagner, the above are all ex-Independents.

For reasons of his own, John W. Davis, who since last September, has been employed in the pupils' dining room, threw up his job, Saturday last, and left for his home in New Paris, O.

Matters pertaining to the annual picnic, at the Home, May 3d, occupied most of the time, at the Advance Society meeting, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Jay Cook Howard, as soon as her liege lord returned home from his Eastern jaunt, lost no time in following his footsteps, and having a little pleasure of her own. Jay no doubt now knows what it is looking after both the house and younger and Howards. Mrs. Howard arrived here Sunday evening, and was the guest of Superintendent and Mrs. Jones till Tuesday evening. Monday evening, a card party was given in her honor. She was shown the interesting points of the city during the day, and Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Robert Patterson gave a box party in her honor at Keiths. It was a pleasure to meet and converse with her and the more so since she is a daughter of Prof. Draper, of Gallaudet. Several here knew her at the College when she was a child. She left Washington from here to be with her parents at Presentation Day exercises.

Dr. Robert G. Patterson, eldest son of Principal Patterson, entertained the teachers at their monthly meeting with an interesting address on the Psychological Clinic, a course of which he took at the University of Pennsylvania under Prof. Witmer.

An estimate of the cost of the new addition to the Home was received this week from the architect. His figures are $6,800, sewage disposal not included. Something will have to be doing. Either the plans must be cut down or another collection campaign entered upon, unless in calling for bids contractors scale down the cost considerably or some philanthropist unexpectedly does the handsome thing for the Home.

A. B. G.

Beaver Valley, Pa.

On April 23d, Rev. B. R. Allabough, of Cleveland, dropped in New Brighton in the morning as a guest of Livingstone McManima till the following Sunday morning, when he went to Pittsburgh to give services. He held services in the Christ Episcopal Church in the evening and the attendance was unusually good. We missed those who failed to attend. Rev. Allabough is expected to be back May 26th. Every mite in the Valley should turn out and come to see him.

On Easter Day Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bulger, of Economy, had as guests, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Judd, of New Brighton. The day was spent pleasantly.

We notice that quite many mutes in Pittsburgh and vicinity are out of work on account of lack of "pick-up" business.

It seems funny that they never tried to hail down to the Valley towns as there may be something for them. Mr. William Chamberlain, of Movaria, O., came to Rochester three weeks ago, and was easy to find work at the Glass Works. He is pleased with the job well, and intends to bring his wife and "kids" down to settle in this valley.

Gump! Please read this carefully. We heard you got sick, while calling on mute friends last Saturday night. The JOURNAL representative investigated and found out that your trouble was caused by smoking of "Italian" Tobies between 5:30 and 10 P.M. after eating very little supper. That is enough to cause your nerves to go bad. Had you had enough to eat, it would not happen then.

We are somewhat disappointed that Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bulger have not put in appearance. The writer got many inquiries, what the matter was with them, but he doesn't know really, unless they must stay in Economy to keep the troublesome kids from damaging their property.

Audley Pitzer, of Freedom, was promoted to a better position in the Freedom Casket Company this Spring.

Melville Woodruff, the ex-millionaire trucker, left us last winter for Southern part of Ohio. We are all wondering what he is doing now.

Miss Anna Steiner, formerly of Salem, O., has accepted a position in the Fry Glass Works, and is pleased with her work, better than her old job as gum maker in Salem, Ohio.

"Paddy" Connolly, of Beaver Falls, was in New Brighton to call on mute friends last Sunday.

J. L. McManima and family moved from Eighth Avenue to Third Avenue, the Main Street only half a square from where Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Judd live. His address is 518 Third Avenue, New Brighton, Pa.

John W. O'Neil, of Phoenixville, near Philadelphia, sent J. L. McManima some photographs that he made while in his home town and Mr. McManima was in Phoenixville and Philadelphia several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Judd have a fine French poodle dog, eight months old. The dog learned some tricks and always goes up and awakens Mr. Judd by licking his nose and also helps Mrs. Judd to the door when anybody comes. One day they were offered a good sum of money for the dog, but refused.

Miss Mamie Rath is getting along nicely after having underwent an operation about five weeks ago. She is happy now. No more trouble for her.

A birthday party was given in honor of Mrs. H. L. Judd last month. The attendance was large. The evening was spent in good games. Refreshments were served.

ST. LOUIS.

The St. Louis friends and relatives of Mrs. Freda Hyman, nee Weisser, of Chicago, are expecting a visit from her some time in the near future.

Miss Pearl Herdman, of the Gallaudet School faculty, leaves May 10, on a two weeks' tour of inspection of Eastern schools.

According to the local daily papers, the Roman Catholic School for the Deaf at Garrison and Franklin Avenues recently, received a bequest of $10,000.

The annual picnic given by the Patrons' Association of Gallaudet School, will be held at Carondelet Park on June 7th.

During the coming summer about twenty-five hundred dollars will be expended for repairs and improvements at Gallaudet School. Last summer the interior was painted. This coming summer the exterior will be painted and new toilet rooms added to each floor.

Mr. A. J. Rodenberger gave the last regular reading on the season's program at St. Thomas Mission on April 26. There was a large attendance. The proceeds were donated to the general fund of the Mission.

The graduates and former pupils of the State School at Fulton are looking forward to a reunion at the school before the re-opening of school next fall. St. Louis will doubtless be well represented at the gathering.

The grounds of Gallaudet School were graded some time ago, and recently a basketball equipment was provided, among other out-door games. Play is on the course of study in St. Louis.

Mr. A. O. Steidemann officiated at St. Thomas Mission on April 28th, and delivered an excellent sermon. Rev. Mr. Cloud officiated in Kansas City on that date, and gave a reading there the evening previous.

The May social at St. Thomas Mission, was a well-attended and enjoyable affair. It was on the calendar as a "leap year party," which in a sense it was, as Miss Steidemann, who had general charge of the program, kept every body on the jump from one social game to another. The next social will be on June 5th.

The St. Louis Division, N. F. S. D., has been making large additions to its membership of late. The May meeting will set a new record for initiations and bring the Division membership beyond the fifty mark.

There was a "Child Welfare Exhibit" at the Coliseum during the two weeks ending May 10th. Gallaudet School had a living exhibit on three afternoons, under the auspices of the Board of Education. Misses Steidemann, Herdman and Russell, had charge of the classes on exhibit.

A reading for the benefit of the St. Louis Division, N. F. S. D., was given by Rev. Mr. Cloud, May 3d. Another will be given, May 31st, by Mr. Steidemann. Messrs. Biller and Arnot give a sleight-of-hand exhibition on the evening of June 8th. All events are at 1210 Locust Street.

The annual meeting of the Gallaudet Union will be held at 1210 Locust Street, on the evening of May 17th. During the past year the "public opinion" readings have formed a regular part of the union's program, and the arrangement seems to have been generally appreciated.

The Woman's Guild of St. Thomas Mission held its annual meeting May 4th, and re-elected Mrs. Cloud-President; Mrs. Chenery, Vice-president; Miss Molloy, Secretary, and Mrs. Harden Treasurer. Mrs. Turczek was admitted to membership. The annual report of the Guild shows that it is in a flourishing condition. The Guild met at 1210 Locust Street, and in future will have its regular meetings there. The next meeting will be on June 1st at 2:30.

All meetings and socials to be given under the auspices of St. Thomas Mission will in future be held in the Sunday School hall on the second floor of the Schnyler Memorial House, 1210 Locust Street. The hall is large, light, airy and in every way admirably adapted for the week day functions of the Mission.

Come to the twenty-first anniversary supper, bazaar and social by the Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Mission for the Deaf at Schnyler Memorial House, 1210 Locust Street, on Saturday evening, May 25th, 1912. Supper 6 to 8 o'clock, admission 25 cents. You and your friends are cordially invited. Cash donations and articles for the bazaar are solicited and will be thankfully received by members of the Guild:—Mrs. Cloud, President, 2606 Virginia Avenue, Miss Molloy, Secretary; Mrs. Harden, Treasurer; Miss Klug, Mrs. Udall, Miss Herdman, Mrs. Schneider, Miss Wilson, Mrs. Stafford, Mrs. Chenery, Miss Mooney, Mrs. Merrell, Mrs. Weiss, Miss Mahon, Miss Huber, Mrs. Turczek.

Wrecked by a Knife Blade.

A ship was once wrecked on the Irish coast. The captain was a careful one. Nor had the weather been of so severe a kind as to explain the wide distance which the vessel had swerved from her proper course. The ship went down, but so much interest attached to the disaster that a diving bell was sunk. Among other portions of the vessel that were examined was the compass that was swung on the deck, and inside that compass box was detected a bit of steel, which appeared to be the small point of a pocket-knife blade. It was learned that the day before the wreck a sailor who had been set cleaning the compass had used his pocket-knife in the process, and had unconsciously broken off the point and left it remaining in the box. That bit of knife blade exerted its influence on the compass, and to a degree that deflected the needle from its proper bent and vitiated it as an index of the ship's direction. That bit a knife blade wrecked the vessel.—Palmetto Leaf.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Miss Emily Goldsmith, a hearing daughter of Mr. William Goldsmith, of Cambridge, started for Chicago, Ill., on April 26th to visit her old friend. She will take a trip to Colorado, Arizona, California, Seattle, and other important places. She may be away about two months. She is well known as an interpreter for many mutes, who need her help.

Mr. George A. Holmes, of Cambridge, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William Abbott, of Stoneham, on April 21st. He is still smart and active, though he is over 75 years old. His wife had been suffering with rheumatism for a long time. In spite of it she is so lively and cheerful, attending nearly every meeting and party given by the Ladies Auxiliary.

Mrs. Gus Converse, of Merrimac, has been visiting her relatives and some friends near Boston.

It was reported that Mr. E. Clayton Wyand moved to Melrose Highlands, where they hire a whole cottage. Has Mr. Wyand ever found his satchel bag in which he brought some Xmas gifts for his friends, the one he left in a trolley car on way to meeting in his absent-minded way?

Mr. George Greene, of Columbus, Ohio, gave a good lecture at a social of the Boston Society on April 10th. He was teaching pottery in Boston a while.

Miss Amy Ramsay, of West Somerville, a Halifax graduate, was baptized by Rev. Mr. Hefflon on April 4th.

About 80 attended Easter meeting at Trinity Parish on April 7th, where Mr. Edwin Frisbee gave a good service, speaking well of the late Rev. Stanley Searing, whom some members remembered well by sending some beautiful flowers to his grave after the Easter meeting. Mrs. Searing was present and appreciated their kindness.

Horace Mann School graduates had a successful and fine party on April 18th. About 150 were present. Mrs. Edwin French and Mr. Earle Bigelow, hearing son of President F. W. Bigelow, of N. E. convention, won a handsome Boston bag each, in "Dumb Band." The writer was not at the party to learn more news, owing to long distance and hard rain.

It was said that another party was held at Catholic College Hall the same evening, and another party in Lowell, too, same evening.

Patriot Party on April 19th, managed by Mrs. Kate Chase and Caterer, Mrs. J. Soper, was quite a success. They made about $30 for the benefit of the N. E. Home, much relief to Ladies' Auxiliary members. Over 125 went to the party and enjoyed a fine fish supper very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fairman, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cutter, of Worcester; Mrs. Murdoch, of Providence; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sinclair, of Hopedale, were seen at the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Small, of Belmont had a party on April 13th in honor of her birthday, and were given a sum of money.

A young mute couple named Lute living in Lynn, had a surprise party on April 20th, and were presented with a handsome gas lamp.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wickens were blessed with another little boy on April 12th. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roberts bought a handsome new house having eleven modern rooms in West Medford, and will move there in May. They sold their stately old house near the Capitol.

Mrs. Geo. Tripp will have a Ladies' Auxiliary business meeting at the North East Home on May 1st, and entertain them and their husbands in the following evening.

Mrs. Ryan, Mrs. Awde, and Mrs. Burrill will have a basket party at the North East Home on May 18th, for benefit of the same Home.

Ladies' Auxiliary members will hold a lawn party at Mr. Mrs. Ira H. Derby's house in South Weymouth, on May 30th. They will sell sandwiches, pies, cakes, ice cream, coffee and tonic. Admission will be free to all that should come.

Mr. Earle Bigelow had an accident lately. This foot was hit by nail, while playing ball. He recovered after a few days' confinement.

The quiet and peaceful spirit of Henry Augustus Chapman, of Salem, Gallaudet College Ex. '79, passed away, Wednesday, April 24th. Funeral services were conducted at the house on Friday afternoon by the minister of the First Baptist Church, Salem, of which Mr. Chapman, has long been a member. The congregational minister assisted. The services were private, only some eighty hearing relatives, and a few deaf persons attending. Mr. Chapman's death was due directly to heart failure, superinduced by Bright's disease. He is survived by a sister with whom he lived, and two brothers, one being the well known Hardy P. Chapman. By profession Mr. Chapman was a draughtsman, and held an excellent position up to a few years ago when he retired to enjoy the fruits of his labor. His age was 62 years. A few days before he died he expressed his desire to go, and was ready.

Mr. Frank Roberts has purchased a handsome estate in fashionable West Medford, next to Winchester, and with his wife, and Rev. and Mrs. Frisbee will occupy the place in the near future. This move will close up the old Roberts house on Hancock Street, next to the State House, the scene of so many joyous gatherings of the deaf during the past half century.

Rev. and Mrs. Wyand have moved from Winchester to Wollaston and after a short sojourn with Mrs. Wyand's parents will go to Col. Simmon's summer cottage in Plymouth, and take care of Mrs. Wyand's mother during the summer. Last year the cottage was closed, owing to Rev. and Mrs. Wyand being in Maryland. The miserable trolley connection at Winchester Square is the direct cause for their not renewing the contract on the house another year. In the Fall they will live in Melrose Highlands, opposite Winchester Highlands.

Mr. W. H. Goldsmith is on a vacation among friends in Maine, while his daughter is travelling through the West. The good deacon will be missed at Church.

On Sunday, April 28th, Mr. Henry Fairman, of Worcester, filled Rev. Wyand's pulpits in Boston and Salem, and delivered an able sermon at both places to fine congregations. With Mrs. Fairman he spent Sunday night and Monday with Rev. and Mrs. Wyand. They were joined by Mr. Hardy P. Clupman on Monday and helped to pack up to move. There is a strong union of Christian fellowship there.

After the services at the Evangelical Alliance Church, Sunday, President F. W. Bigelow, of the New England Gallaudet Association, announced the place and date of the convention. It will be held in Springfield, Mass., September 2d and 3d, 1912 (Labor Day). Formal notice will appear in the JOURNAL, he says. To the joy of all New England, the Rev. Arthur D. Bryant, of Gallaudet College, Washington, D. C., has been chosen as the orator of the Convention.

At this convention, one feature will be the adopting of the new Constitution and By-Laws. At the Portland Convention, Messrs. E. W. Frisbee, E. C. Wyand and Geo. F. Flister, were chosen as a committee to prepare this work. After the session at which the committee was appointed, the committee held an informal meeting, and at suggestion of Mr. Frisbee, the matter was left till the winter when all would have ample time. The writer has been "at sea" since then.

Mr. Ernest Sargent is now employed in Dorchester as a gauge maker, at the same place with Mr. Libby. He says it beats getting up at 4 A.M. and milking a dozen cows and doing farm work.

Mr. William Rudolph has been confined to his home with an injured leg, and seems to be in a pretty bad way.

Mrs. Isaac Blanchard is again out after an illness.

Mrs. Charles Walker was at Church Sunday. She is recovering rapidly from an operation recently performed.

Rev. Mr. Wyand preaches in Worcester Union Congregational Church, Sunday, June 2d.

The writer has recently had a pleasant afternoon with Rev. Mr. Packard in Salem. Mr. Packard is now living in retirement past the allotted three score and ten, yet full of vigor and as ever a great Bible student. Few men have done more for the religious efforts of the deaf, of Boston and Salem. He is living with his son, who has moved into his home to take care of him.

Mrs. George Abrams has been called to New York by the death of her aged father. She has our sympathy.

FANWOOD.

ARBOR DAY AT FANWOOD.

In the afternoon of Arbor Day all the teachers and pupils were assembled in the chapel at about one o'clock. An excellent program had prepared during the week in anticipation of the day, and upon the appearance of the Principal the exercises commenced. Pursuant to the new rule, it was an "all-pupil" presentation, the teachers coaching, when necessary, from the "sidelines." Half of the presentations were oral and half manual, so neither side was neglected, though there were some individuals who displayed the happy faculty of being able to use their tongues and their hands at the same time.

Before the program commenced, the curtains hiding the chapel sates were drawn aside, and revealed a couple of beautifully appropriate landscape drawings with the first stanza of "America" in the middle. The art work was done by Cadets St. Clair and Ciavolino, both members of the art division. They were congratulated upon the excellence of their work.

The Band was also a welcome part of the proceedings, for when the feast of reason—if not the flow of soul—grew wearisome, the rejuvenating strains of some particularly fine melody or inspiring martial air brought all back mentally refreshed. No, no, this is not meant to be derogatory excellence of the presentations. Among the selections were: "The Star-Spangled Banner," "Robin Adair," "The Soldier's Farewell," Medley (Solo and song), "Everybody's Doing it Now," "Oh, You Beautiful Doll," "Christian Soldiers," etc. The last number was played upon the conclusion of the exercises.

Before the pupils were dismissed, Principal Currier orally read resolutions upon the death of Mr. Wade, Professor Jones signing for the benefit of the deaf present. Mr. Wade was a sincere friend of Fanwood, and especially so of the deaf blind pupils. By his death we lose a friend, who during his lifetime always sought to promote the advancement and happiness of those doubly afflicted. When the reading of the resolutions had been finished, all present rose, and stood in silence for several minutes, thinking of the deceased.

The Principal was highly pleased with the work done by the teachers and pupils, and urged them to "keep up the good work." The program consisted of thirty-six numbers, and a detailed chronicle would but confuse the reader. Most were given in class formation, but as the grade advanced they were given more individually.

FANWOOD LITERARY ASSOCIATION.

The Fourth Male Class, Mr. La Crosse, last Saturday evening entertained the F. L. A. Dr. Fox presided. The writer was not present, but the accounts given by the pupils are highly commendatory of the presentations by the Fourth Class boys. Their program was:

READINGS—"The Funny Family," by Cadet H. Koster; "The Unfortunate Boy," by Cadet A. Coffey; "An Intelligent Dog," by Cadet F. Smith; "Brave Little Boy," by Cadet J. Cohen; "The Disappointed Husband," by Cadet C. Walther; "The Indian and the Two Kettles," by Cadet J. Werther; "The Fisherman," by Cadet J. Kamanovitz; "The Detective," by Cadet J. Bartosky.

DEBATE "Resolved, That Water Travel is More Dangerous than Land Travel." Affirmative, Cadets Glassner and Garrison. Negative, Cadets Sharr and Gabay. (Won by Affirmative side, 80 to 20.)

PLAY—"A Bulgarian Deserter," by the Class.

BASE BALL.

Saturday afternoon the Fanwood Nine defeated the Washington Heights Y. M. C. A. by the score of 12 to 3. Principal Currier was an interested observer of the game.

NOTES.

"For two days last week we had the pleasure of a visit from Dr. Enoch Henry Currier, Principal of the New York Institution. Dr. Currier is one of those educators who follow the maxim: "Seeing is believing," and came West to observe the work the schools for the deaf are doing. In company with Dr. Clarke, who was for quite a number of years one his associates on the teaching staff of the New York Institution, he went through all the departments, and seemed to be much interested in all that he saw."—Michigan Mirror.

Accompanied by the Principal, Mrs. Charles H. Knox, and Miss Harriett Tabor, belonging to the Ladies' Committee of this Institution, and Miss Katherine Van Nest, spent a day at Fanwood last week.

Several new pictures have been hung in the hall and boys' sitting room. There is a particularly handsome one in the hall, made up of about fifty-three small photographs of scenes during Commencement and Members' Days.

The Proteans seem to have become quite "flowery" of late. They have three flower-pots, each containing some kind of fern or flower. Wonder how long the craze will last.

The Proteans had the pleasure of attending the reading of Dickens' "Doctor Marigold," by the Rev. John H. Keiser, Saturday evening.

At the regular monthly meeting, after all business had been transacted, Principal Currier regaled the Cadet Officers with a complete account of his travels of the past few weeks, when he was visiting the various schools for the deaf.

Quite a number of the pupils witnessed the start and finish of the Evening Mail's Modified Marathon. William Stokely, Fanwood's best runner, was a contestant, finishing eighty-sixth in a class of 1,400.

The Gallaudet Monoplane

Edison F. Gallaudet of Norwich, has many friends in this city, which was formerly his home and where his father, Dr. E. M. Gallaudet, still resides. Mr. Gallaudet was graduated at Yale in the class of 1893, classmate among others of Colonel Francis Parsons and John T. Robinson. Of recent years he has been much interested in aeronautics and the "Norwich Bulletin" of yesterday had this to say of his new invention.

The Gallaudet monoplane, constructed since last January at the Thamesville shop of Edson F. and Denison Gallaudet, was shipped from here Sunday night on the steamer Chelsea en route to the aviation field at Hempstead Plains, Garden City, L. I., where Edson F. Gallaudet, who accompanies the machine on the Chelsea with his force of four mechanics, will test it out in preparation for entering it at the Aero Club show in New York, May 9th.

The Gallaudet monoplane, one of the few monoplanes to the credit of American aviators, is of a design by Edson F. Gallaudet, following the French types of this machine. Mr. Gallaudet was abroad in France last winter, where he studied monoplanes closely, completing one of his own, which is built for strength, compactness and high speed. Just what speed it will make he is not predicting, but monoplanes of a similar size and power have made from 90 to 100 miles an hour.

Most of the American aviators have devoted their attention to the development of the biplane, the Curtiss and the Wright, but Mr. Gallaudet takes a step in advance by devoting his time to the monoplane and has produced the machine that is now ready for trial.

Its motive power consists of a 100 horsepower, 14-cylinder, air-cooled Gnome engine, driving a three-bladed wooden propeller. Total spread of the two wing, extending each side of the aviator, is 32 feet. The length of the machine from the aluminum hood over the engine, which makes the front, to the propeller at the end of the engine shaft, is 21 feet. Looked at sideways, it is seen that the body of the monoplane has much the outlines of a fish or torpedo form, from the rather blunt nosed head made by the perforated housing over the motor, tapering to the conical steel framework, or fuselage, which carries the shaft back to the propeller.

At 900 revolutions per minute the engine has shown a pull of 370 pounds, and its two gasoline tanks with 23 gallons each capacity and oil tank with 12 gallons capacity, give a flying radius of four hours at full speed.

The wings are 8 feet wide at their widest point, and 6 feet at the tips. They are constructed of spruce ribs, reinforced with aluminum braces, and covered with rubberized cloth. They are braced to the framework with steel cables, each tested to several tons' pull.

The monoplane is designed to carry one passenger besides the aviator, the passenger sitting on the seat directly behind the aviator. The monoplane weighs 850 pounds, has a lift of 1,200 pounds, and a total load of 1,600.

The steering apparatus consists of a tail, moving vertically just in front of the propeller, and a vertical rudder moving horizontally. This is placed over the shaft just in front of the propeller. The lateral balance of the monoplane is maintained by the wings, which have a certain amount of up and down motion. The wings are carried on a hollow mast of finest steel. Which passes under the seat of the aviator.

The landing equipment is a pair of regulation-sized bicycle wheels and a landing skid, which is under the propeller. The bicycle wheels are a feature which give the monoplane a high clearance and adapt it for being carted around through the country without danger of injury, and also facilitates landing without so great danger of injury.

One handle controls both vertical and horizontal rudders, and a push button in front of the operator stops the engine. The seat for the aviator is at the central point of the body, with one of the gasoline tanks each side of him. He looks out over the oil tank, his head and shoulders projecting, so that he has a clear sight all around.

Copper Imports and Exports

Copper and copper manufactures imported into and exported from the United States in the fiscal year 1912 will approximate 150 million dollars in value, or more than 10 times the total of 1892 and almost 2½ times that of 1902. Figures compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, show that during the 9 months ending with March imports of copper, including both ore and manufactures, aggregated 31½ million dollars, and exports 86 million, the total movement into and out of the country thus being 117½ million dollars and indicating that the approximate total for the fiscal year will be 150 million dollars, of which about 110 million will be on the export side.

This total of 117½ million dollars' worth of copper and manufactures thereof passing into and out of the country during the 9 months ending with March represents a large gain over preceding years.

Nearly 15 million dollars' worth of quinine and the material from which it is extracted has been imported into the United States during the past dozen years. Figures compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, show that in the period 1900-11, inclusive, fully 40 million ounces of quinine and nearly 50 million pounds of cinchona and other quinine-bearing barks have been imported, their aggregate value being about 14 million dollars. In the current fiscal year the imports of cinchona bark will probably be about 3½ million pounds, valued at about one quarter million dollars; and of quinia, and its various salts, 3 million ounces, valued at approximately a half million dollars.

Beware of people who are constantly belittling others, finding flaws and defects in their characters, or slyly insinuating that they are not quite what they ought to be. Such persons are dangerous, and are not to be trusted. A disparaging mind is a limited, rusty, unhealthy mind. It can neither see nor acknowledge good in others. It is a jealous mind; it is positively painful to it to hear others spoken well of, praised, or commended for any virtue or good point. If it can not deny the existence of the alleged good, it will seek to minimize it by a malicious "if," or "but," or try in some other way to throw a doubt on the character of the person praised.

July 20, 1911.
To my Wisconsin Convention
Fraternal of 1911:

This is a little talk on the Photographic feature of the convention. All that you can have as tangible souvenir of the happy week we spent at Delavan are photographs from the imperishable image on the plates.

The plates not developed at Delavan are even better than those from which proofs were shown.

The groupings were as follows:
The Whole Body in one photograph.
The Alumni of Gallaudet College.

(This negative is far better than the one from which proofs were shown at Delavan.)

The Superintendents and Principals Group.

(There were two made, that of Monday being unusually excellent, but on account of seven Superintendents not appearing, another group was made on Tuesday at noon. In quality, from the artistic standpoint, Monday's is far better. However, you can have either or both, but kindly specify which one.)
